VI. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions based on it : (5×1=5)

On July 16, 1990, a large earthquake struck Luzon, an island in the Philippines. The earthquake devastated cities for hundreds of miles around, and killed more than 1,600 people. Yet the destruction was not over. Two weeks later, residents of Luzon discovered steam coming out of a giant volcano called Mount Pinatubo. But when scientists inspected the volcano, they did not find any evidence the volcano would erupt.

However, on March 15, 1991, villagers on the northwestern side of the island were startled by another series of earthquakes. The earthquakes continued until two weeks later, when Mt. Pinatubo began to rumble. On April 2, the mountain sent an explosion of steam, water, ash and rock into the air. By June 7, a dome of lava 130 feet high and 660 feet across had formed on the surface of the volcano. Five days later, the volcano erupted. 847 people in surrounding communities died, most of them when their roofs, buckling under the weight of wet ash, collapsed.

Geologists would later rank the explosion of Mt. Pinatubo as the second largest volcanic explosion of the 20th century. While scientists have never determined whether the earthquake in 1990 directly caused the volcanic explosion a year later, the two events are generally considered to be related. Although it's difficult to predict when or where an earthquake or a volcanic eruption will strike, these events can occur in patterns. Mt. Pinatubo is located on a geologic formation called the Ring of Fire. The reason why so many earthquakes and volcanoes occur here has to do with plate tectonics. On the surface of the earth is a patchwork of enormous plates, millions of square miles across and about 50 miles thick, atop which all geographic features – seas, oceans, fields, mountain ranges – sit. These plates are in constant motion, although they move very slowly – about 10 centimeters per year. When these plates shift against, or away from each other, they can cause massive events, such as earthquakes and volcano eruptions. These movements are referred to as plate tectonics. Most earthquakes occur in areas often close to where the plates meet.

- 1) The passage describes
 - a) volcanic eruption, the Ring of Fire, and plate tectonics
 - b) an event that occurred on July 16, 1990 in the Philippines
 - c) the similarities between the Andes and the Rocky Mountains
 - d) how to prepare for earthquakes and volcanic eruptions
- 2) What happened when Mt. Pinatubo erupted on June 12, 1991 ?
- 3) “_____ the two events are generally considered to be related.” Which are the two events ?
- 4) Why do so many earthquakes and volcanic eruptions occur around the Ring of Fire ?
- 5) What happened in 1990 on the island of Luzon ?

VII. a) Using the hints given below write a narrative paragraph of about 80-100 words :

5

- VIII. Make notes on the following passage by choosing either linear or a diagrammatic format :

5

Animals living in modern zoos enjoy several advantages over animals in the wild; however, they must so suffer some disadvantages. One advantage of living in the zoo is that the animals are separated from their natural predators; they are protected and can, therefore, live without risk of being attacked. Another advantage is that they are regularly fed a special, well-balanced diet; thus, they do not have to hunt for food or suffer times when food is hard to find. On the other hand, zoo animals face several disadvantages. The most important disadvantage is that since they do not have to hunt for food or face their enemies, some animals became bored, discontented or even nervous. Another disadvantage is that zoo visitors can endanger their lives. Some animals can pick up airborne diseases from humans.
