- Cricket is not originally an Indian game. It was introduced in India by the British. Now it has become the most popular game in India. Matches in cricket may be broadly classified as national and international. National matches are also called counties. In India we have the Ranji Trophy, the Irani cup and the Deodhar Cup. The Ranji Trophy is between state teams and the Irani Cup is played between the Ranji Champions for the year and the rest of India. The Deodhar cup is of limited overs between the zonal teams. International cricket is played between cricket playing countries. They are test matches which are of five days each or one day internationals which are of 50 overs for each team. People are crazy of cricket and bet quite a lot of money on victories and defeats.
